104 Mushers sign up for IDITAROD 2007

Wasilla, ALASKA - Saturday, December 2, 2006 - There are now 104 mushers who have officially entered in the 2007 IDITAROD Trail Sled Dog Race. As of this writing the field includes 64 Iditarod race veterans and 40 rookies. The rookie field in the 2007 Iditarod Trail Sled Dog Race is considered to be one of the strongest in race history.

This year marks the fourth year that the IDITAROD Trail Sled Dog Race has surpassed the century mark. This field of entrants is the second largest field in race history. There were 107 mushers who signed up in 2003. For more information on this year's field of mushers, please log on to www.iditarod.com, and click on mushers on the left hand directory.

The field may still grow, as mushers who have postmarked their applications by December 1st are still considered eligible under ITC rules. IDITAROD Trail Sled Dog Race Veterans can still apply after the December 1st deadline at a higher entry fee up to the 14th of February, 2007.
